LOCAL BOOM CERTAIN WITH NEW FACILITIES

Many Families Anxious to Move Here From Up River Section

NEW TRAIN IS NEEDED

Morning Service Would be Welcomed---Owners of Land Plot Building Lots

There are nearly two score of families who would live here if satisfactory transportation facilities for early morning travel were afforded for their workers, and is the statement that has been made by a man closely in touch with affairs. That already more than this number of families from up the river as far as Brownsville and Long Branch prefer Charleroi is admitted.

Charleroi is facing a boom of no small proportions, it seems with proper facilities provided. South of California a number of large coal mines are being opened and Charleroi capital is interested. Many of the miners would welcome an opportunity to live in Charleroi or in this immediate vicinity if there were means at hand of getting to work early. Already a number of railroaders who work at West Brownsville and Brownsville live in Charleroi and more have been anxiously inquiring for houses. But with all, the story is the same. They say there should be an early morning train, leaving Charleroi at 5:30 o'clock or 6 o'clock. Until such a train is provided, there will be dissatisfaction.

With the opening of the new Bentleyville trolley line will come an influx of trade to Charleroi that will be better than a new industry. Not only that but out the new electric railways line will be opened up a vicinity for homes that will be particularly pleasing. In two or three points owners of land have engineers at work laying out their farm in lots. Between Charleroi and Speers just above the new state road being constructed D. M. McCloskey, Esq., of Charleroi is laying out a plan of lots to be put on the market later. On North Charleroi hill what is known as the Piper farm is being cut up into building lots. At other points on North Charleroi hill there is indicated a rapid sale of lots and more ground is being sought.

Building operations have been comparatively dull in Charleroi for some time and the borough has the appearance to some extent of congestion. From the inquiries being made and the great demand for houses, particularly in the hill neighborhood a building boom within the next year would not be surprising. Out Maple Creek rapid development is anticipated, but part of the building operations there will be in Twilight borough. A new cut glass plant is being located out Lincoln avenue extension by the

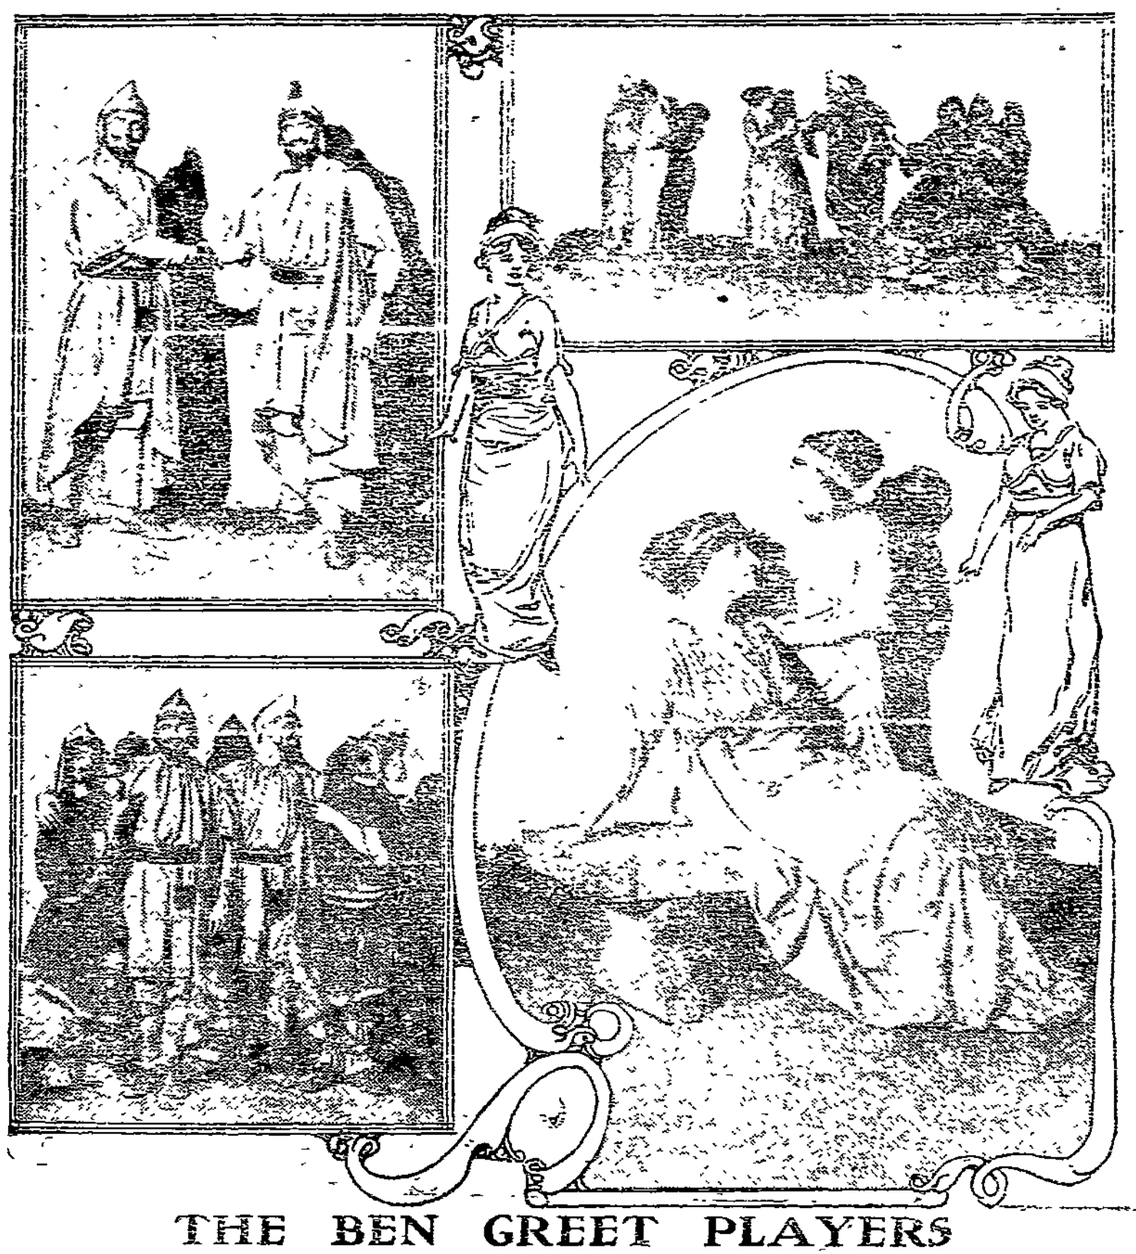
Shakespearian Drama to be Given By Famous Ben Greet Interpreters



THE BEN GREET PLAYERS

The company that is probably the most famed in the United States as producers of Shakespearian drama—The Ben Greet players—will appear for the first time in Charleroi tonight in the production of "The Twelfth Night" at the Chautauqua tent on Meadow avenue. Their work is noted the world over. Mr. Greet today is one of the greatest living authorities on the English drama. He was prominent for 20 years in England with performances that were enacted in Cambridge, Stratford-on-the-Avon and other points. The Ben Greet players will appear in Shakespearian costumes, with little stage setting, depending upon their unexcelled dramatic ability to make the production what it should be. As a prelude to the Shakespearian production, the Zimmer-Havekotte trio, consisting of pianist, harpist and violist will give a concert.

CROWDS ENJOY OFFERINGS AT BIG CHAUTAUQUA TENT

Immense crowds have been thronging Chautauqua tent on Meadow avenue enjoying the offerings of the Chautauqua and today is another of the big days, featured as it is by the appearance this afternoon of O. L. Kiplinger, chaplain of the Indiana state prison. This evening the famous Ben Greet players will appear. This morning Boy Scout work was defined and Bertha Pratt King gave a powerful lecture on "The Teachings of Emerson."

"People who are engaged in congenial work, for which they are fairly well paid, who can hope to take care of themselves day by day and put by something for old age rarely commit crime. Any sane efforts made by society to better the condition of the working man, therefor, is in the line of the prevention of crime."

The above remark was "an aside" made by Rev. Kiplinger this afternoon while discussing in his lecture the question of work for prisoners. The speaker said:

"We believe in work for the prisoner, not for the sake of making the prison self-supporting, but for the sake of making the man self-supporting.

"It is only inhumanity and greed that would deny to prisoners the right to work. Every prisoner has a right to do a marketable work. He has a right to be taught in the prison something he can follow when released by which he can make an honest living."

In his lecture Mr. Kiplinger compared ancient and modern systems of prison management; discussed the indeterminate sentence and parole law and showed that under modern management of prisoners 74 per cent of the men released keep the law outside the institution and stay out of prison while under the old regime 70 men out of every hundred discharged from prison got back into prison again within one year for some new crime.

He gave numerous statistics to prove his argument, and on the question of the liquor traffic said that more than 83 per cent of men committed to prison are users of liquor.

Preceding the lecture this afternoon of Dr. Kiplinger the Zimmer-Havekotte trio appeared in a concert. The trio consists of a pianist, a harpist and a violinist. The harpest is said to be one of the best in America and the violinist and pianist enjoy much distinction in their work.

Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, the great preacher and orator of Chicago, delivered Tuesday night his famous lecture "War Against War," which is a terrible indictment against war as it has been carried on in past ages.

He ridiculed the idea of preparing for war in time of peace, but stated that the way to do in time of peace is to prepare to keep the peace. Although Dr. Gunsaulus is a Republican he spoke very highly of President Wilson and his policy in dealing with the Mexican situation.

He blames the most of the war agitation at present on the powder

CONTRACT IS LET AND WORK BEGUN ON FAU EDIFICE

The contract for the erection of the two-story theatre and office building on Fallowfield avenue for Eugene Fau was awarded to the Charleroi Lumber company, and this morning work was begun on the excavation for the basement and foundation. A large quantity of earth will have to be removed, as the ground is considerably above the pavement and it will require an excavation of almost ten feet below the level of the sidewalk.

The contractors work is to be completed on or before January 15, 1915. Mr. Fau hopes to have the building ready for occupancy soon afterwards. His theatre, which will occupy the first floor will probably be ready to open by the middle of February.

The upper floor where there will be 12 office rooms will be reached by two stairways, one on each side of the theatre. These office rooms will be arranged that two may be used by the same person. Twelve doors will be placed in front on the first floor. Ten of them will open into the theatre and the other two to the stairway.

$100 Reward.

I will pay $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of party or parties who released the brake and attempted to turn my machine on Lookout avenue Saturday night letting it run away.

.P NEWSPAPERS

York correspondent of Patrie recently published r an item in which it was ne afternoon newspaper of New York was on the spension while a morning ith an afternoon edition city is likely to pass in- is of receivers. Investiga- ot confirm the statement, uite certain that some of rs have been losing heav- son of a slump in advertis- an advance in the cost of lt a newspaper, says the Tribune.

ily newspaper is the only necessity which has not ad- n price during the last few Everything else of which one k has gone up. Meat has tak- than one upward jump and w an additional advance is We cannot think of many ar- domestic use that can be ob- for what they were worth a of a century ago. Every eeper knows how great an ad- there has been in the cost of during recent years. It is a l fact.

for the daily newspaper, it has sold for some years past for the est American coin. One cent the average daily in its home or county. In the meantime ize of the paper has been con- tly increasing.

the face of this cheap newspaper ma we are confronted by the dead- fact that almost everything con- ed with the issue of a newspaper adays involves the expenditure of rger sum of money than formerly. ges are higher, salaries have in- ased, material cannot be procured former prices—everywhere there st be an increased expenditure in e face of a price for a single issue at does not cover the cost of the hite paper. This is the situation nfronting many of the newspaper ublishers of the country. BOY SCOUTS AS DETECTIVES

It does seem as if whoever is re- ponsible for the assignment of boy couts to guard a London church rom the suffragets has reached the ipex of imbecility in attempting to eal with the wild women—and when one considers the number of feeble- minded measures that have already been recorded in the course of the white paper. This is the situation campaign, that is saying a good deal, declares the Pittsburg Gazette Times. Police duty of this nature does not come legitimately within the range of the boy scout's activities. He is sup- posed to be neither a watchman nor a detective. Certainly he should not be called upon to do the work in which the duly authorized guardians of the public have dismally failed.

One of the things most forcibly im- pressed upon the mind of the boy scout is the necessity for unfailing courtesy to women. The lessons of chivalry are taught at every oppor- tunity. When a virago sets fire to a building, admittedly it is the duty of somebody to seize and convey her to the nearest lock-up, but that some- body is not a boy. A squad of boy scouts endeavoring to subdue a bit- ing, scratching, kicking suffraget would not be a very edifying spec- tacle. It may be said that the youngs- ters are not expected to take the part of police and seek to make arrests, but to perform watch duty only. The two kinds of duty cannot well be sep- arated at times, but even if they could, spying on the suffragets is not ideal employment for a company of youths who have joined the organiza- tion with far different purposes in view.

In our own country the Boy Scouts are essentially a non-militant organization. In England military authorities admit that they hope to utilize their services in case of war and much of their training is conduct- ed with this end in view. It now ap- pears that the boys are to be relied upon to reinforce the police as well as the military in case of emergency. England is coming to a sorry state when it has to call on the small boy to help it cope with law-breakers.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At the Chautauqua tent Tuesday night Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, the widely known lecturer and preacher of Chicago, told a story of what seemed to be an over pious family. The head of the family insisted that each member give a Bible quotation at each meal. One of the younger boys forgot at dinner and his father sentenced him to eat his meals alone in a corner of the room.

That night at the evening meal, the father heard various quotations. In the corner was seated the scapegrace at a tiny table all his own.

In a spirit of magnanimity, his father looked over to him and said, "Now Johnny has repented, and now knows some quotation. Anyhow we will let him try."

Johnny swallowed once and repeated, "Thou has preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."

There was a noble youth from Ohio who on being urged to take wine at the table of Chief Justice Chase in Washington had the moral courage to refuse. He was a poor young man, says an exchange, just beginning the struggle of life. "Not take a glass of wine?" said Mr. Chase, in wonderment and surprise. "Not one simple glass of wine?" echoed the statesman's beautiful and fascinating daughter as she arose, glass in hand and with a grace that would have charmed an auchorite, endeavored to press it upon him.

"No" said the heroic youth, resolutely, gently repelling the proferred glass. What a picture of moral grandeur! A poor, friendless youth refusing wine at the table of a famous statesman, even though proffered by a beautiful lady.

"No," said the noble young man, and his voice trembled a little and his cheek flushed. "I never drink wine, but—here he straightened himself up and his words grew firmer—if you've got a little good old rye whiskey, I don't mind trying a snifter!"

trust senators, who have powder to sell and the steel trust senators who have steel for battle ships and for projectiles. He gave a number of statistics showing the awful results of war in the past.

A most interesting recital was given by the Central Church Quartet of Chicago Tuesday evening preceding the lecture of Dr. Gunsaulus. Their selection of a program was slightly disapointing but their singing was excellent. Their voices were pleasing and showed the result of good training.

QUITE POSSIBLY THE TRUTH

At Least It Will Be Admitted Detective Had Reasons on Which to Found Theory.

"This is indeed remarkable, madam," said the great detective. "And what did your husband do next?"

"Well," said the excited woman in the Belgian-hare green gown, "after he had pulled himself upstairs on the banisters, he ran around four times with his shoes in his hands, saying to himself in a loud tone of voice 'Sah! Shh! Don't make a noise, or you'll wake her up.' Oh sir, I don't know what to make of it. He never acted so before in his life and I'm sure it must have some strange significance."

"Baking' Buffina'," said the great detective. "And what did he do next?"

"Then," said the excited woman "he threw his trousers over the chandelier and caught hold of the suspenders, saying, 'Have my seat, madam,' I really can't understand it at all."

"H'm," said the great detective. "Did he do anything after that?"

"Yes, he threw his shoes out of the window, calling after them, 'You will make a noise coming upstairs, will you?'"

The great detective rose with knitted brows and drew great ponderous volume after volume from the bookshelves.

"Madam," he said, finally, "I won't say for certain, but I think your husband had been drinking."

The woman fainted.

MORE TUNNELS IN PROSPECT

English Engineer Predicts Present Channel Project Is Only a Forerunner.

"When one tunnel under the English channel has been completed, another will have to be made very soon after it, and possibly a third."

This confident prediction was made by Sir Francis Fox when talking to members of the house of commons on the engineering difficulties of the proposed tunnel. All parties were represented, and it was curious to notice how the prejudices that prevailed at one time against the project have died down.

Sir Francis told of a recent conversation he had with a high military authority who was at one time a strong opponent of the scheme. "But," said this authority, "now that we have aeroplanes and airships the problem is entirely changed, and it has become a matter of national necessity that the tunnel should be made."

Sir Francis Fox rapidly ran over the details of the scheme. It would cost £16,000,000, half of which is to be contributed by England and half by France. A revenue of £1,555,000 is estimated, and an expenditure of £1,155,000.

Statue for Great Writer.

The proposal to erect a statue to Goldsmith within the precincts of the Temple, where he lived and worked for many years and now lies buried, has been revived with prospect of success.

Clement K. Shorter suggests that a replica of Foley's statue of Goldsmith in front of Trinity college, Dublin, should be placed in the Temple.

There are, it is declared by artists, only two good statues in London, those of Charles I. at Charing Cross and of James II in the Admiralty gardens. Dublin has Foley's two statues, those of Burke and Goldsmith. They are both of unquestionable beauty, and it is felt that the proposed replica would not only do something to commemorate the memory of Goldsmith, but would add a statue of great charm to London. There is very little doubt that permission for its erection would be obtained from the master of the temple if a suitable site was decided upon.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Robert Treat Paine.

Robert Treat Paine, one of the signers of the American Declaration of Independence, died in Boston one hundred years ago. Mr. Paine belonged to a distinguished Massachusetts family. He was a delegate to the first continental congress in 1774 and to the second provincial congress held in Cambridge in 1775. In 1778 he was a member of the committee appointed from Massachusetts to confer with members from the other colonies on the regulation of the price of labor, provisions and manufactures. From 1777 to 1790, covering the period of Shay's rebellion, Mr. Paine was attorney general of Massachusetts. In later life he served as a judge of the Massachusetts supreme court.

Care of Potted Palms.

Palms should not be over potted, but a pot bound condition of the roots is likely to be injurious, especially when there is neglect in the matter of watering and springing or sponging. In repotting remember the plants do best in small pots. The ideal soil for palms is a good rich loam, leaf mold and a good addition of sharp sand. Good garden soil mixed with an equal quantity of one of the various advertised brands of humus and a little sand will give splendid results. After repotting see that the new soil is made firm in the pot.

That Awful Cold Plunge.

"Are you still taking a cold plunge every morning?"

"No, I quit doing that to save time."

"Why, a cold plunge doesn't take more than a minute or two."

"I know, but I used to spend three-quarters of an hour curled up in bed hesitating."

FINISHED HIS DINNER ALONE

Captain's Dissertation Began to Full Table, But Only Steward Heard the Finish.

"Sickness at this season," said Captain Craig, "is a timely and absorbing topic. Here is a remarkable incident bearing on it.

"Once when I captained a smaller and unsteadier boat than this I took my seat at the captain's table the evening of our first day out, and was enchanted to see that, though the weather was a bit squally, the table was full. So I said.

"'Ladies and gentlemen, I congratulate you. Here we are all together, 30 of us—not a vacant place. Ah, the menu! Let me advise the entire 27 of you to take the clear rather than the thick soup—it is easier to digest. As to the drinkables, mineral water is best, but a very light, dry claret used in moderation couldn't hurt the weakest one of our company of 25. Let me repeat that it does truly rejoice my heart in weather like this to see such plucky sailors about me. Why, on many a trip my table in similar conditions wouldn't number a dozen instead of its present 15. Ah, here is the fish! If you will choose the light sole instead of the rich turbot, I guarantee that ever one of our octette will sleep the better for it. As to the next course, I recommend the chicken, rather than the pork. Steward, since there are four of us, bring a large chicken, fresh grilled. I say, steward, one moment. Change that order to a half a chicken. That is quite enough for two. Or, no—a quarter of a chicken will suffice. I shall finish my dinner alone.'"

SPEECH WITH THE PRESIDENT

Conversation Was Not Lengthy, But It Served the Purpose of Little Judson.

Two friends of long standing met at the club one evening and engaged in a reminiscent talk. Munroe had apparently met everybody in the world worth knowing, from Mrs. Pankhurst to King George. As for little Judson, he was clearly outclassed, and he felt it keenly. He had always shone in club gabfests, but on this occasion Munroe had him down. Suddenly, however, his face became illuminated with hope. "Ever meet the president, Munroe?"

"Well, no, Judson; I'm sorry to say I have never met Mr. Wilson—that is, as yet. I admire him greatly, but every time I've been in Washington he's been off traveling somewhere. Did you ever meet him?"

"Oh, yes," announced Judson, proudly. "Met him only a short time ago."

"Where?"

"On the links."

"Did you engage in conversation with him?"

"Well—er—in a way, yes. That is, he spoke to me."

"Really? What did he say?"

"Fore!" said little Judson.

That Spring Feeling.

As the first warmth of spring brought a feeling of lassitude, the farmer's wife in older days would go searching through the woods for "yarbs" from which to make a brew as a tonic for the whole family. The city man, feeling the laziness of "spring fever" coming over him, brought from the corner drug store a 49-cent package of 'Old Doc" Somebody's spring tonic. But things are changing. Men have learned that the best spring tonics are the gifts of a beneficent nature. A full breath of fresh air, a brisk walk along a grass-grown road, a plunge into the cool waters of the old swimming pool—if the water is pure and cold—or the morning shower if in the city, fresh green food, or the pursuit of a bounding golf ball over a spring course—those are the real invigorators, true tonics.—Rochester Sentinel.

No Danger of Competition.

In L'Esprit des Francais is an instance of the sharp, biting wit for which Alexis Piron the French epigrammatist was famous.

A young author whose ability was by no means equal to his conceit was discoursing at length upon the merits of his work.

"I am tired of writing of that which others write of," he said. "I want to create an original work, something that no one has ever written about or ever will write about."

Piron turned quickly to the speaker. "Why not write your own eulogy?" he said.—Youth's Companion.

Puts Airships in Prayers.

Under the orders of Emperor William, as the head of the Lutheran church, and with the consent of the Lutheran synod, the general prayer, which is said weekly in all Lutheran churches, now asks the protection of God for the aerial service as well as for the army and navy. The sentence, as amended, reads:

"Protect the king's army and the entire German war forces on land and sea, and particularly the ships and airships while on their journeys."

As You Like It.

Jimmy, who was no highbrow, had gone all alone to see one of those outdoor performances of Shakespeare. He was telling his elders about it.

"Some class to Shakespeare," said Jimmy. "The show was fine."

"But what show was it?" asked Jimmy's big sister.

"Let Ev'rybody Do to Suit Himself," replied Jimmy.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Charleroi People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills.

For Charleroi kidney sufferers,

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Charleroi people.

Mrs. Fred Jackson, 207 Prospect Avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "About five years ago I was troubled by a constant backache. If I did a little extra work the pain in my back was intense. I didn't rest well at night and got up in the morning lame and stiff. If I stooped, sharp pains caught me and I could hardly straighten up. I also had rheumatic twinges in my back and arms and I couldn't do my sweeping. Dizzy spells and hot flashes bothered me terribly. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in the family, I got a box at Piper's Pharmacy and began taking them. One box practically cured me. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney and bladder complaint."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Jackson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

MUST PLAY WAR REGARDLESS OF HIS OBJECTIONS

When Company A of the National Guards left Monongahela for the annual encampment a few days ago one of the members of the company, Kelfey Clark it is declared was not present to answer roll call. It is supposed he did not feel inclined to play the war game.

The officers in charge of the encampment thought otherwise and Monday Constable Tidball came to Charleroi on the lookout for the delinquent soldier boy. He left the warrant in the hands of the local police, who soon succeeded in locating the stay-at-home guardman near Speers.

Tuesday morning Constable Tidball started to Indian, Pa., with the belated soldier. He will be a little late, but will probably get there in time for the sham battle.

ONE MAN DEAD FROM SHOOTING AT MINING TOWN

Vesta No. 5, the mining town where Policeman J. Westley Channing was shot last week, was stirred almost to the rioting point Tuesday afternoon, when Charles Secora, aged 28 years, a Slav of Meadowlands, was killed by a bullet from his own gun while fleeing from Policeman Bert Hyatt and another officer, after having engaged in a gun fight with them and the report had gotten out that the officers had shot the man.

So serious did the situation become that the mine officials fearing there would be a general outbreak on the part of the excited foreigners, asked Sheriff Burt Lutton to come from Washington to take charge of the affair. He arrived later in the evening with a number of deputies, but by that time the excitement was somewhat subsided.

Secora was employed at the Vesta mine for about three years but three months ago he left there and located at Meadowlands taking with him the wife of a countryman. The woman lived with him a few weeks and then returned to her husband. Tuesday Secora came to the house while the woman's husband was working in the mine and attempted to force her to leave her home and go with him. She refused and he beat her. The officers were summoned and the gun fight followed.

As the officers approached Secora pulled his revolver and declared, "I will kill the first man that comes up here." A number of shots were exchanged, and Secora attempted to escape through the back of the house. He ran down a ravine with the officers in pursuit. Suddenly a shot was heard and he fell. The officers were about 200 yards behind him and are unable to determine whether he turned the weapon on himself or in falling accidentally discharged the gun.

STATE TELLS HOW TO HOOK ARMY WORM

Following closely upon the announcement of the United States bureau of agriculture on how to get rid of army worms, the state zoological department has issued a bulletin that is of particular interest to persons who own lawns. The army worm has made its presence severely felt in some parts of Charleroi. The state issues the following:

"Within the last few days hundreds of specimens of the larva or so called "worm" of dark or striped color have been taken to the office of the State Zoologist at Harrisburg. Anxious persons by the score have called by telephone or letter for information on the means of suppressing the [illegible] of 7,[illegible] suddenly invaded their grass and other vegetation. Upon examination of these specimens State Zoologist H. A. Surface, found them to be the army worm and has discussed their habits and described briefly their destruction in the following words:

"The army worm is a kind of cut worm which is present every year, but does not commonly appear in such numbers. When there are comparatively few specimens present they obtain plenty of vegetation for their food and consequently do not crowd each other to the starvation point, and do not "march" forth as in army. It is only when they are very numerous and find insufficient vegetation for them to live in one spot that they travel and at that time are given the common name by which they are known.

"The pests feed voraciously and continue to grow until they are over one inch in length, when they become quiet and change to chrysalids, and later into the soft gray moths, often seen flying around lights in the evening. The army worm moth is known by the white point in the middle of its forewing.

"While the larvae are feeding voraciously they are easily destroyed. The main question each person has asked after the first inquiry of "What is it," is how to destroy them. When marching toward cultivated crops they have been kept back by plowing a furrow with the vertical side from them, so they cannot climb it easily and then dragging a log behind a horse ridden by a boy. Of course such measures are entirely impractical on lawns. Fortunately, here it is easy to resort to arsenical poisons and thus end them. They can be killed either by dusting or spraying with an arsenical poison, without injury to the grass and without danger to the residents of the property.

"A good method is to mix one part of arsenate of lead or Paris green with about thirty parts of any kind of powder, such as slaked lime, ashes, road dust, or even flour, and dust it very lightly over the infested lawn. It requires only a very light dusting to get ahead of the pest.

"Another method is to sprinkle or spray them with an arsenical material in water. One-half ounce of arsenate of lead or Paris green, in one gallon of water, applied as a spray will effectively settle them. It is sometimes even sufficient to sprinkle it quickly over the lawn with a sprinkling can, although the material applied as a spray sticks better on the vegetation and is more efficient as a poison than when the same strength of material is applied from a sprinkling can even though much more may be used with the latter. Whatever one has been using as a means of destroying cabbage worms can be used with advantage for destroying the army worms.
